

TIME FOR A CHANGE OF HEART

J. E. Chukwunyere

Aba

AT St. Michael's Church, Aba, Rev. O.D. C. Brown gave a closing remark to his sermon very fitting for the beginning of a new year. That day was Monday, the 1st of January, 1968, and the closing remark was "Happy New Year, Happy New You, and Happy New Me."

To you the civil servant who would want an inducement in form of money to do the job for which you are employed and paid; to you the trader who would inflate prices of commodities at the slightest observation of greater demand; to you the motor vehicle driver and tout who would send passenger fares soaring at an increase in the demand for transport; to you the Biafran who would choose to retard the progress of this country by acts of sabotage; and to you the religious fanatic who would blatantly refuse to contribute your quota to the successful prosecution of the war with aggressive Nigeria, that closing remark is a call to divest yourself of the misdeeds of previous years and be new with the New Year, 1968. It is a call for a change of heart. You should be born again.

We say we are a Christian nation. I do not dispute that. But are we practising Christians or mere Church goers?

All true Biafrans should impress that part of the sermon upon their minds and try to be born again.

The best will be for Biafra if in this New Year, it becomes also a Happy New You, and a Happy New Me.
