THE recent provision of the four-55-passenger buses by the Port Harcourt City Council at this period of war of survival, is the sign of good things to come to our great country — Biafra, when the war is over.

Since the present is the reflection of the shape of things to come; and while I should say that the future would be hopeful, I strongly appeal to all true Biafrans to join hands with our gallant fighting forces to win this thoughtless war of aggression against us by Yakubu Waggon and his accomplices on or before 6th March, 1968.

By the look of things, Biafra will be the first ANDORA south of Sahara when the war comes to a finish. Therefore, let there be no more saboteurs or those who want the war to perpetuate.

And finally, I take this rare opportunity to thank the Senior Divisional Officer, the Provincial Secretary and the energetic school master, the right man in the right job, the Administrator and Commissioner for Labour Mr. Emmanuel Aguma; and all the brains behind the achievement of this wonderful social amenity.
